

Not just a faucet, a piece of art

Manufacturer of high-end bath and kitchen faucetry since 1986, Aquabrass yet again lets Nature enter the world of contemporary bathrooms with the introduction of the Flower faucet, designed by David Vercelli.

Lean forward to smell the freshly cut flowers as you wash your hands; wouldn't this be the best way to start your day? The innovative idea incorporates the concept of a vase into the faucet itself. Water gradually fills the glass vase up and then cascades down the wide spout. When off, the water will remain in the vase. To remove the water, simply pull the discreet stick situated in the middle of the vase. A perfect blend of form and functionality.

The Flower faucet is available in a brushed nickel finish and is retailed at $3,995.
